Chamberlain was superb. The Senators fell before his delivery as nickel slides down a slot machine and does not win. Four measly singles was the sum total of what was fondly hoped would be a slugging contest. But the uncertainty of baseball is singular, and the Cincinnatis won yesterday's gaine with hands up. There was a large crowd present, probably 4 000 They were a consistent lot of rooters. but there was suppressed feelings from start to finish, which broke out here and there in the game as one of the Senators made a good the game as one of the Senators made a good play, and greans were heard when an error snabled the visitors to score. It was one of those tantalizing games when a hit would score several runs, and the hit would be like the proverbial letter.

As weak as they were in batting, so were shey ragged in flelding. And provokingly, too, every error resulted in a run or more. It was probably the weakest nine Cincinnati has had in the fleld this season. Just think of it. Parrott covered first-base in a way that made Cartwright wonder. And the angular pitcher hit like the diekens, too. He demonstrated conclusively that he was an all-around balltosser.

Look at the score of the visitors' outfield, Look at the score of the visitors' outfield. Thirteen files were captured. They were none of the easiest kind either. Comiskey put Holliday in center, and it is believed that he was actuated in this by a premonition that Cartwright was due for one of those long hits he has made frequently in the vicinity of left center. Well he made one of them yesterday. "Bug" went after it, turned around, ran again, turned and backed and backed, the street his area over his head and institutional his area over his head and institutional. stretched his arms over his head, and just when everyone thought it was safe he jumped up in the air and caught the ball. It was a long hit, a great catch, retiring the side with that it contained many strengthening properties. "Get that roast beef aworking," shouted Latham to Parrott, when the young man was at the bat in the eighth, and the bird-named young man just did as his captain dictated, sending out a corking single to right.

It was his third safe hit.
The Washingtous played a listless game.
Their inability to hit took all the ginger out of them, Ward and Tebeau being the only ones who staid in the game. Joyce seemed to be suffering with inantition. There wasn't as much life in his playing as thore is lemon in a camp-meeting glass of lemonade. Cartwright's two errors cost several runs, so with Hassamaear, with Maguire, and ade. Cartwright's two errors cost several runs, so with Hassamaear, with Maguire, and Radford. Within there is much satisfaction to know that the Senators won two out of the three. President Wagner could not possibly felt bad over the defeat, because a message to Mauager Schmeltz contained the pleasing in-telligence that a boy was born to Mrs. Wag-ner. This fact certainly kept the owner of the Senators in good sufrits.

the Senators in good spirits.

The Reds scored in the first inning on singles by Latham, Holliday, and McPhee. Holliday went out by being hit with a batted ball. An error by Cartwright, on which Parrott

In the fourth two hits and a combination of slowness and rattle netted a run. Parrott and Canavan hit safely, the latter's hit put-ting the former on third. Canavan stole ad, and as Smith was being thrown out second, and as Shirth was rough for third, at first by Radford he made a rush for third, at first by hadrord ne made a rusal for finite.

Cartwright ran up with bail in band, and while Canavan was being run down Parrott went bome, crossing the plate one step before Canavan went out at third.

Latham singled in the fifth, and on Mc-

Guire's low throw to Ward, which passed Hassamacar also, the chatterbox went home Hassamaear let Parrott's single get away from him in the sixth, on which the latter reached third. He secred on Badford's error three runs.

The home team scored two runs in the second on a buse on balls and singles by Radford and Petty.

In the fifth Chamberlain tried to take Ward's scalp, the ball grazing the top of his head. Ward took his base and stole second and scored on Holliday's failure to hold Abbey's Hope was running high in the eighth. After Abbey and Maguire were retired Hasamaear went to first on balls and third on Tebeau's safe hit. Then came Cartwright, Holliday and McCarthy moved out, out, out. It was well they did, as the heavy first baseman met one of Elton's square and lifted it nearly out of sight. It was going toward the sign board, on which there is a horseshoe painted. It didn't reach there, as Holliday, after turning around once or twice, going backward ten or fifteen bet, stopped its onward fight, and he had the ball safely in his hands. It was a dandy hit, a dandy catch, and the applause that followed was also of the dandy order. The score:

Of the five races run four were won by the poet favorities, while Larchmont gave his owner and the latter's friends an incipient case of heart disease by showing his beels to a good field at the remunerative odds of 7 to 1. Freddy Miller said before the race he had but little confidence in Larchmont's chances, but after the race had been run there were many who looked askance at Freddy and believed he had been stuffing them.

For the first time since the opening of the track Bayley was able to negotiate the turns, track Bayley was able to negotiate the turns, and the manner in which he rode Larchmont showed he could ride when he wanted. The favorite in the race was Stringfeilow, but the latter was never in the hunt, being outpaced from the jump. YALE MEN COMPETE.

Unusual Interest Attached to the Y. M. C. A. Games This Year.

NEW York, June 9 .- The fifty-second annual games of the New York Athletic Club were held at Travers Island this afternoon. Unusual interest was attached to the games by the competition of the Yale men, who are to go to England shortly to meet the Oxford cracks. The Yale men entered were Captain O. A. Hickok, B. H. Cady, J. A. Morgan, A. Pond, G. F. Sanford, L. P. Sheldon, and a number of lesser lights. Pond and Sheldon, however, were the only Yale winners, the former winning the 440 yards handleap and the latter the 220 yards hurdle handleap. The one mile relay was most exciting and resulted in the breaking of the record, the time tween the Boston and New York athletechibs.

The first pair to run were H. C. Hubb, New York, and T. F. Keene, Boston.

Keene finished one yard ahead. The race was then taken up by F. Rowe, Boston, and S. K. Gerard, New York, Gerard passed Rowe, and finished a yard ahead. Next came George Sands. New York, and F. W. Lord. George Sands, New York, and F. W. Lord, Boston. Sands finished six yards ahead. E. W. Allen, New York, and S. W. Merrill, Bos-ton. Ethen came to a finish. Merrill strove hard and reduced New York's lead to 3 yards at the finish.

Putting the sixteen-pound shot was interesting on account of O. A. Hickok, captain of the Yale team, who took second place, beating his intercollegiate record of forty-two feet, made two weeks ago, by nine inches.

New York, June 9.-A finer day and a faster track could not have been desired for to-day's racing at Morris Park, and the exellent card brought out a large attendance The chief interest was in the Toboggan Slide handicap, in which some of the best sprinters in America were engaged. Only two of the fifteen colored on the card declined the issue, and these were Wah Jim and Defargilla.

There was a long delay at the post, but Rowe finally got them off in good order and Correction jumped at once to the front. She carried them along to the quarter pole in 22% seconds, and to the naif in 45%, and had every one of them digging their toes in at that point. Littlefield then took an easy pull on the mare and she galloped home an easy winner in 1:10%.

In the last twenty yards Stonenell shot out of the bunch and challenged Roche for the place, but lost it by the shortest of heads. It was a beautiful contest.

The other feature was the Larchmon stakes, in which Gotham did not start, and Mirage and Paladin, led all the way, and it looked as if the former had a sure victory, but she stepped on something and pulled up lame in the third place. Paladin then went out and won from Counter Tenor, who is not anywhere near as good as he was at Gravesend.

If You Black

Your Own Shoes

A well-stocked blacking brush box should lways be kept on hand, and this should contain the best of blacking, together with three good brushes. One of the brushes should be quite hard, to effectually rid the boots of all mud and dirt, another should be soft, in order to insure the successful application of the blacking, and the third should be classed in the happy medium, so as to give a satisfactory polish and "shine." Each should have its own distinct mission to perform, and there uses must never be confounded, says a correspondent of The Household, who also gives the following advice: The blacking, if liquid, should be kept well corked, and after all traces of mud have been removed from the boots it should be applied to the brush by means of a sponge, which is tied to a stick, and from thence to the leather. This having been accomplished, the boots should be well polished with the regulation brush and a firm, vigorous hand. Much lation brush and a firm, vigorous hand. Much more delicacy of treatment is required in cleaning ladies boots, except when they are the stout common-sense ones used for walking or sknting, great care always being taken to avoid soiling the lining of the boots.

An excellent polish for general purposes is made from the following ingredients Mix 4 ounces of livory black with 4 ounces of treacle in an earthen jar, to which and an ounce of sulphuric acid, stirring the mixture all the while. Then pour in 2 teaspoonfuls of citye oil, and after this has been thoroughly incorporated add by degrees 1½ pints of white wine vinegar.

Another polish which is more suited to ladies' fine boots is made by mixing equal proportions of sweet oil, treacle, and vinegar with an ounce of lamp black, and applying

Patent-leather boots require entirely differ-ent treatment. They should first be wiped with a damp sponge and afterward with a soft, dry cloth. The sponge may be moist-ened with either water or milk, but the latter should not be used too often. Occasionally a little oil might be applied with very good ef-fect, but blacking should nover be used ex-cept upon the edges of the soles.

Lots of people do not know what to do for a pair of shoes after a scaking rain. There is an unfailing remedy: First wipe off gently with a soft cloth all surface water and mud. Then rub well with paraffine oil, using a flannei rag for the purpose. Set the shoes aside till partially dry, and then repeat the rubbing with oil. They let the shoes dry thoroughly, but gradually. Before applying a final dress-ing of polish give them one more rub with the flannel, with just a triffe of oil on it, and loes any one of my reacers nappen to have encountered or to have utilized the services of a "shoe-breaker?" I ask the question because an American paper has discovered that "shoe-breaking" has been added to the evergrowing list of recognized employments for women in this country. And now, perhaps, I had better explain who and what a "shoe-breaking" is sure a writer in the Ladies' Picbreaker" is, says a writer in the Ladies' Pic-torial. She is, I gather, a person who under-takes, for a consideration, to wear other peo-ple's new shoes for a while, and to walk about in them until their rigid newness has worn off, and their consequent discomfort is re-moved.

Personally, I have not yet met with any one who has taken up this reatly terrible profession, which certainly ought to command remuneration on a very liberal scale to compensate for its attendant agonies. Apart from the perpetual martyrdom that must be entailed by its practice, one hardly sees how the difficulty of varying shapes and sizes is to be adequately met. It would be so easy in some cases to break out a pair of shoes while attempting to break them in, and so impossible in other cases to produce any relaxing effect at all, that the profession could not be other than a precarious, as well as a painful one.
